WYNN'S PACIFIC
 A great deal of skill is required to negotiate heavy loads such as this around sharp bends, especially where buildings restrict clearance. Pacific Drawbar Tractor No. 192 entered service in 1950 and is shown hauling a transformer weighing over 100 tons.

ACKTON ALBION
 This Albion Reiver tipper from the late 1960s features an Ergomatic cab. This tilt cab, made by Joseph Sankey and Sons, was comfortable and easy to enter, but not very aerodynamic due to its large, flat front and recessed windscreen. The setting is Ackton Hall colliery.

WESTERLY WINDS
 A 1962 Atkinson eight-wheeler on a coastal road in Cornwall, with bushes permanently bent by the prevailing winds. It has the MK1 fibreglass cab with a panoramic wrap-around two-piece windscreen. The heavy steering could make them tiring to drive.

GREEN GIANT

Seen unloading at a bottling plant in the late 1950s, this Leyland Octopus 22/01 of 1949 originally carried the livery of Courage Breweries, including a golden cockerel above the cab. The tank, manufactured by WP Butterfield, had a capacity of 80 barrels.
